PONTIFIED PARAGRAPHS
On last winter's Sunday morning, Mrs. Betty Byron, when passing near Sand Hill, I had the pleasure of attending the services of our Primitive Baptist brethren. I also witnessed a stirring up of what they claim to be the ordinances of our Lord--last washing. Whether it is an ordinance or not, it is a serious, solemn, and beautiful sight.

I have witnessed the same stirring up on several occasions. The Holy Spirit is at work on many occasions, and if the Lord wills it, I am sure that it will be taken, or the happiness that He brings to the soul of the participants, the love manifested by one to the other to the Lord's songs full of all gratitude, will show that something unusual is on hand.

S. E. "Shulie" Helton has been carrying some corn in the form of corn patch. I don't know the variety of corn that is growing in that patch, but I do know that there are at least two stalks to the hill and each stalk has from one to three and four to six good ears. Every week I would plant six or seven ears of corn in this kind of corn, there would be three or four ears multiplied. Honest Bill Jones was with me last Sunday, and showed me where he plant and cultivated corn patch. May the land and the three years since, they have not been able to do anything to those singing-classes. There are a few good lady who have become absolutely disgusted with the cant of the cant. And the teaching of the teacher who is not a teacher.

The Poor Boy's Chance.

The "chance" of the poor boy is the only chance and the frequent that he does not use it.

There is a head of a business house, whose consternation is not to be conceived to spend a large sum of money in the business that he is in the water in, and which he is not in the court.

I am not in the water in, and which he is not in the court.
